

Registration Dates Set for Autumn Semester

Registration, the three-day process of officially enrolling and setting classes for thousands of Brigham Young University students, will be held this year on Sept. 14-16, in the Smith Fieldhouse.

All new undergraduate students who will register at BYU the first time and all freshmen who registered for the first time during the 1963 summer school will begin the registration procedure on Thursday, Sept. 16.

All former and continuing BYU students and all graduate students will register at the Smith Fieldhouse on Friday and Saturday.

The complete alphabetical order of registration for each day is printed on page two.

Utilizing the entire fieldhouse, registration staff and the faculty who are serving as advisers can handle the registration problems of thousands of students each day. Some students may take several hours to complete the registration procedure.

Others finish in close to an hour. The selection of classes with the advice and consent of a faculty adviser, paying tuition and fees, handling such problems as health and accident insurance, automobile registration and parking permits, and filling out identification and enrollment cards are all part of the process.

Although late registration is permitted until October 8, a late fee is charged and students are encouraged to register at the time they are scheduled, according to William R. Siddoway, dean of admissions and records.

That day is also the last day for adding and dropping classes, he noted.

Mid-semester registration will be held on November 12 for students released from missions or from the armed services since the beginning of school. A limited number of these "block-plan" classes are available.

Classes begin Sept. 20.

Registration is a two-day process at Brigham Young University. Faculty advisers and registration workers make use of the entire George Albert Smith Fieldhouse to take care of the thousands of students who complete their class schedules each day.

Many Banyans Still Unclaimed

Approximately 400 Brigham Young University students who ordered a 1965 Banyan, the school yearbook, did not pick up their copies, according to Mike Gonzales, editor. These students may have the book mailed to their homes if they will send their address and 60 cents to the Banyan, c/o of Student Publications, Wilkinson Center, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. Some 7700 copies of the book were ordered, according to Mr. Gonzales.

Students are urged to order their book at registration in the fall semester. The Banyan is sold at a reduced rate during the registration period.

Off-Campus Growth ...

Building Boom Benefits BYU

There is still plenty of good building left," according to Fred Schwendiman, director of auxiliary services at Brigham Young University.

Mr. Schwendiman's office supervises both on-campus housing and off-campus housing. The school is expected to take care of up to 10,000 students in 1965.

On-campus units—Helaman House, Heritage Hall, Deseret Towers, and Wyomont Terrace—have been booked for the coming year since April. Space in Heron Hall was gone in January 1965, and Deseret Towers were completely booked for 1965-66 in November, 1964, according to Mr. Schwendiman.

New apartments off campus are being constructed for hundreds of students. Rapid building in the past three years has helped to push the number of students housed off campus from 3500 ten years ago to more than 10,000 who will be off campus apartment dwellers next year.

In 1961-65 close to 2500 students lived at home or with relatives and commuted to school, mostly from the close surrounding towns but some from as far away as Granger and Nephi.

In addition to providing room for nearly 6000 students on campus, the school housing office assists students in finding space off campus and requires landlord to maintain minimum standards. The apartments are "graded" for student convenience.

The off-campus units are supervised, under university direction, and school standards are required in the off-campus homes.

Church activity through the campus wards and stakes of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, often brings off-campus and on-campus students to gether in the same ward.

Construction scenes similar to this one are a familiar sight in Provo during the summer months. Apartments are being constructed by private firms for hundreds of off-campus student dwellers. Some 10,000 students are expected to make their homes off-campus, and 6000 will reside in university owned housing.

DAILY UNIVERSE

SPECIAL EDITION - NEWS OF 1965-66

Vol. 17, No. 166

Summer 1965

Provo, Utah

Freshman Orientation Scheduled for Sept. 14-18

The friendly spirit of a small college in a large university atmosphere will be emphasized during Freshman Orientation, scheduled for September 14-18.

All new students will be divided into groups of 20 and will spend a large part of the four days in these groups. Called "Y-Groups," each unit will be directed by an upperclassman, according to Miss Addie Jean Fuhman, faculty adviser.

Such topics as counseling, scholarships, honor code, tutoring, academic standards, student services, military training, testing, school traditions, dress and social standards will be on the agenda for the groups.

The smaller groups will allow the students to discuss each topic and to "fire" questions at their group leaders.

Other orientation activities will include a series of tests which will enable school officials to guide students in the selection of classes.

These tests include a music test, language examination and the American College Test (ACT).

which all students must take before they register. (See story on page four for more information on this test.)

Evening sessions have been planned for each night for all of the students. On September 14, they will hear discussed the question, "Who Lights the 'Y'?" The next night is designated as Fresh Night at the Wilkinson Center. Students will be able to make use of the bowling and games area in addition to dancing in the ballroom.

Thursday (Sept. 16) will be registration day for the freshmen and that night will find new and old students attending "Meet your Bishop" activities. (For more information on ward and stake activities see page four.)

The last evening program during the week will be a talent show, to be held Saturday in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Special interest groups will also claim the attention of the incoming students during the week.

The Associated Men Students have planned a fashion show for Friday night. The Associated Women Students are hosting a reception for the new girls at 4 p.m. on Friday.

The students will also gather in meetings divided according to college and major and according to their housing preference, according to Miss Fuhman.

Returning upperclassmen who are interested in being leaders of "Y-Groups" should contact the Student Activities Office.

Y Gives 1600 Scholarships; High Grades Mark Winners

A total of 1600 scholarships have been awarded Brigham Young University students for the coming year. Of the 1600, some 900 will go to incoming freshmen, according to Orval L. Nelson, director of scholarships and high school relations.

Approximately 300 of the scholarships cover tuition and fees. The rest cover tuition or part tuition. Many of the awards are given in recognition of ability in a particular field, the director said.

Scholarships are granted to new students on the basis of need, standing in graduating class in high school, grades and activities.

The average grade point for a new scholarship winner is 3.7 out of a possible 4.0, according to Mr. Nelson.

For the past several years a large number of National Merit Scholars have applied to Brigham Young University. The total number applying for this year will not be known until August.

Scholarship funds budgeted for the coming year have been fully allocated now, but students desiring to apply for a scholarship for the next academic year should apply in February.

All Brigham Young University students with a 3.5 cumulative grade point average are encouraged to apply for scholarship aid. The school grants a large number of scholarships each year.

Many individuals, organizations and foundations have set up scholarship funds for the benefit of the BYU students.

Many of these scholarships, in addition to University-sponsored grants, are renewable if the recipient maintains a 3.0 grade point average.

Tutors Available

Students interested in special tutoring should contact the Academic Standards Office in the Smoot Administration Building.

This office will help the student make contact with a qualified tutor.

Individual tutoring costs $1.50 per hour, although some free help is offered by members of service and honorary societies.

Three of the outstanding musical talents to come to Brigham Young University this coming year will be Theresa Berganza, left, Spanish soprano, Lorin Hollander, brilliant young American pianist, and George Szell, who will conduct one of the world's finest symphony orchestras, the Cleveland Symphony.

Symphonies, Soloists Signed

The Cleveland Orchestra, which many critics have acclaimed as the finest in the country, will be among the musical offerings to be presented at Brigham Young University in 1965-66.

Under the baton of George Szell, the orchestra has become one of the best known and most critically noted in recent years.

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, under the musical direction of William Steinberg, will also appear on the campus during the year. This orchestra has won praise as one of the "six best orchestras in the United States."

Maurice Abravanel will conduct the Utah Symphony Orchestra in two concerts to complete the list of large groups which will appear on campus during the year.

der, brilliant young American pianist, and George Szell, who will conduct one of the world's finest symphony orchestras, the Cleveland Symphony.

Registration Schedule

FALL SEMESTER

1965

REGISTRATION SCHEDULE

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1965

All new undergraduate students who will register at B.Y.U. for the first time and all freshmen who registered during Summer School 1965 at B.Y.U. For the first time will register at the Smith Fieldhouse in the following order:

A.M.	P.M.
8:00 Dree to Ferik	1:00 Rasm to Roon
8:15 Ferik to Gent	1:15 Roon to Shiel
8:30 Gent to Hadl	1:30 Shiel to Sore
8:45 Hadl to Hawk	1:45 Sore to Suth
9:00 Hawk to Hova	2:00 Suth to Toom
9:15 Hova to Jepp	2:15 Toom to Ward
9:30 Jepp to Keri	2:30 Ward to Will
9:45 Keri to Leav	2:45 Will to Wz
10:00 Leav to Mads	3:00 Wz to Azad
10:15 Mads to Meac	3:15 Azad to Berg
10:30 Meac to Muhl	3:30 Berg to Bren
10:45 Muhl to Olip	3:45 Bren to Call
11:00 Olip to Pete	4:00 Call to Clair
11:15 Pete to Rasm	4:15 Clair to Cuel
	4:30 Cuel to Dree
	4:45 Dree to Rasm

All former and continuing B.Y.U. students and all graduate students will register at the Smith Fieldhouse in the following order:

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1965

A.M.	P.M.
8:00 Davi to Dunc	1:00 Lint to Malm
8:15 Dunc to Evan	1:15 Malm to McCr
8:30 Evan to Fors	1:30 McCr to Muir
8:45 Fors to Gent	1:45 Muir to Niel
9:00 Gent to Gree	2:00 Niel to Ouen
9:15 Gree to Hank	2:15 Ouen to Perr
9:30 Hank to Hata	2:30 Perr to Powe
9:45 Hata to Hilm	2:45 Powe to Rees
10:00 Hilm to Hund	3:00 Rees to Rodg
10:15 Hund to Jens	3:15 Rodg to Saun
10:30 Jens to Kimb	3:30 Saun to Davi
10:45 Kimb to Lars	3:45 Davi to Saun
11:00 Lars to Lint

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1965

A.M.	P.M.
8:00 Saun to Shum	1:00 Ande to Barb
8:15 Shum to Smit	1:15 Barb to Benn
8:30 Smit to Step	1:30 Benn to Bohl
8:45 Step to Symp	1:45 Bohl to Brow
9:00 Symp to Thor	2:00 Brow to Butt
9:15 Thor to Urie	2:15 Butt to Chad
9:30 Urie to Ward	2:30 Chad to Clea
9:45 Ward to Whit	2:45 Clea to Cran
10:00 Whit to Woff	3:00 Cran to Davi
10:15 Woff to Zeem	3:15 Davi to Zeem
10:30 Zeem to Anve

Honor Council Fosters Integrity on Campus

Based on the philosophy that "honor must come from within and not be imposed from without," the Student Honor Council was organized at Brigham Young University in 1948.

Under direction of Don Johnson, senior, psychology major from Nampa, Ida, the 1965 Honor Council still operates on this basic philosophy.

Security Office Directs Traffic, Parking Areas

Control of campus traffic and parking is one of the major responsibilities of the Security Office, under the direction of Capt. Swen C. Nielsen.

In order to govern the traffic problems of 17,000 students, a number of regulations have been issued. These include:

1. All students must register automobile drivers in Provo City during the academic year. There is no charge for registration.

2. In order to park on the campus, the student must purchase a parking permit. All students living in on-campus housing who register a car must purchase a parking permit.

3. Tickets will be issued and fines imposed for violations of the traffic regulations. This includes both parking and moving violations.

4. Violators will be assigned points in accordance with the violation they are charged with. When a student has amassed 200 points, his driving privileges on the campus will be suspended for one semester. Good driving records will be used to reduce the total number of points that a student accumulates.

5. Student appeals should be taken to the Traffic Appeals Court after the board (the amount of the fine) is paid.

DAILY UNIVERSE
Published Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and examination periods and bi-weekly during the summer months by the Associated Students of Brigham Young University for the students, faculty, administration and staff. Second class postage paid at Provo, Utah 84601. Postmaster: Please send address changes to DAILY UNIVERSE, c/o Brigham Young University Press, Provo, Utah 84601, U.S.A.

Forums Call Variety of Experts

Prominent figures in the fields of entertainment, journalism, science, the arts and international affairs have been scheduled to appear at the weekly forums assemblies during 1965-66.

Leading off the series on October 14 will be Louis Untchewsky, poet, anthologist and editor.

Allen Drury, author of "Advise and Consent" and "A Shade of Difference," will follow on October 21.

Winston S. Churchill, grandson of the late British Prime Minister and currently a commentator on the British Broadcasting Corporation, will address the students on October 28.

Edgar Bergen, famed ventriloquist and creator of Charlie McCarthy, Mortimer Snerd and others, will perform on Nov. 11.

Appearing on Jan. 17 will be Max Lerner, educator and expert on international affairs.

"A Voice from Modern India," Madame Rajan Nehru, a distant relative of the late Indian leader, will discuss her country's problems on Feb. 3.

Historian Stringfellow Barr will speak on Feb. 17, to be followed on Feb. 24 by Dr. Jerome Wiesner, dean at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and presidential advisor on scientific matters.

Howard K. Smith, author and news commentator for the American Broadcasting Company, will appear in the Smith Fieldhouse on March 3.

Joe Calloway will help his BYU audience relive the times of Abraham Lincoln with his rendition of many of the Civil War president's most famous speeches on March 24.

Dr. Kenneth MacFarland, former superintendent of schools in Topeka, Kansas and well-known author and lecturer, will speak on April 14.

Aian Lomax, collector and former archivist of American folk songs for the Library of Congress, will discuss his collecting activities and present some of his favorite songs at an assembly scheduled for April 21.

Leon Harris, author of the "Pine Art of Poling," which has been praised by political "comedians" of both parties, will speak on April 28.

Others who will appear are Baroness Maria von Trapp, made famous by the musical "Sound of Music," and countless Alexandra Tolstoy.

Madame Rajan Nehru, member of a distinguished Indian family and authority on her native land, left, journalist and lecturer Winston Churchill and Baroness Maria von Trapp, inspiration for the Sound of Music, are all slated to appear as a part of the Brigham Young University forum series this coming year.

These nine students form the Executive Council which will guide and plan student activities for 1965-66. On the back row, from left are David Hoopes, executive assistant, Boyd Zollinger, executive assistant, Jerry Callister, vice president of student relations, Russ Parker, vice president of culture, and Lynn Southam, vice president of academics. Front row, from left are Craig Collette, vice president of social activities, Bob Christiansen, studentbody president, Mary Curley, executive secretary and Dale Marquis, vice president of finance.

Employment Office Finds Work For 40 Per Cent of Y Students

More than 40 per cent of the Brigham Young University students held down part time jobs while they are going to school. These jobs are divided about equally between off-campus and campus employment, according to Nad Brown of the Campus Employment Service. Even with this high percentage, a number of jobs available have never matched the number of students seeking jobs, he noted.

The two best times to get work are at the beginning of the first semester and later in the second semester, when outdoor work becomes available.

The Campus Employment Office not only places students in jobs on the campus but acts as an employment agency for off-campus employers, placing students according to need, experience and ability.

Students seeking work should be willing to accept a reasonable wage, be prepared to work a few extra hours into their class schedules and should be willing to be patient until a job is found, Mr. Brown said.

Because it is often difficult to find a job immediately, a student should come to campus with enough money to last him well into the first semester, he added.

During a usual school semester students will fill 50 to 60 completely different kinds of positions. Most common of the jobs are stenographic, clerical, sales, domestic, custodial, labor, trades, agricultural, gardening and foods.

Few opportunities for employment in heavy industry exist for part time workers in the area.

Prospective workers should register with the Employment Service as soon as they are available for work in Provo. Advance contact with the Campus Employment Office is not encouraged because students will not be placed until they come to campus to register and are ready to begin work.

Dr. Siegfried von Nastitz, consul general for Germany in San Francisco, made the official presentation of the books to Dr. R. Max Rogers, chairman of the Department of Languages at BYU.

The books cover a wide range of topics, from German art and culture to philosophy and language, according to Dr. Rogers.

Goethe Institute is a private organization which fosters study of the German language all over the world. This is the first time that the institute has given material to BYU, Dr. Rogers said.

Currently on display in the McKay Building, the books will be moved soon to the J. Reuben Clark Jr. Library.

Responsible for studentbody funds in the coming year will be Dale J. Marquis, vice president of finance. He is from Glendale, Calif. and is a senior pre-dental major.

Mr. Christiansen and the five studentbody vice presidents were elected in April. The other three members of the Executive Council are appointed by the president.

Bob Christiansen is from Ely, Nev., and is a sociology major. He served in 1964-65 as an executive assistant to President Bruce Olsen.

Lynn Southam was elected to the newly created position of vice president of academics. He is a junior majoring in political science who calls Pleasant Grove, Utah, his home.

Russ Parker, vice president of culture, is a junior accounting major from Draper, Utah. His office will direct many of the assemblies and programs during the coming year.

Jerry Callister is vice president of student relations, a job that includes such diverse activities as pep committee and international students. He is a junior majoring in zoology who claims Merced, Calif., as his home.

Named as executive assistants by President Christiansen are David Hoopes, Oakland, Calif., and Boyd Zollinger, Island Park, Ida. Executive secretary is Mary Curley, Fort Deane, Ariz.

The Executive Council is not the only governing body in student activities. Other groups, such as the Associated Men Students and Associated Women Students, and the five classes, all have activities for which they assume responsibility.

With most student activities being centered in the Ernest L. Wilkinson Center, the building is operated by the Studentbody Officers.

The students set policy and work with Student Coordinator LaVar Rockwood, Wilkinson Center Director Lyle Curtis and Business Manager Curt Wynder in providing a wide variety of programs.

One of the busiest offices on the fifth floor of the Ernest L. Wilkinson Center is that of Craig Collette, vice president of the student body in charge of social affairs.

With his staff Craig has the responsibility of planning hundreds of activities—most of them dances that start before registration and continue until the seniors have donned their robes for commencement.

Most of the dances were scheduled for 1965-66 during the last part of the school year just concluded.

Highlights of the "social year" will include the Preference Ball, Homecoming Dance, Junior Prom, Winter Carnival and Winter and Spring formal.

Get acquainted and "hello" dances will be held in the Wilkinson Center ballrooms and on its patios with the beginning of Orientation Week.

Homecoming will be held on Nov. 16, with the big dance scheduled for Nov. 3.

Winter Carnival, which traditionally draws big crowds to a pre-dance concert, will be in February and the Junior Prom, with its pre-dance concert, will be April 15, according to Betty Kane of the BYU Scheduling Office.

In addition to these traditional affairs, the social office has planned something new for the coming year. Every other Saturday the Skyroom, atop the Wilkinson Center, will be open to the studentbody for dinner-dancing. Although this was done on an irregular and experimental basis last year, it will be a regularly slated activity this year, according to Dan Staples of the social office.

In addition to dances open to the entire studentbody each week, individual groups, including housing units and wards, will hold dances throughout the year.

The Hello Assembly, held at the beginning of each school year, draws students from each state and many foreign lands together in the Smith Fieldhouse. Here the sounds of state songs are mixed with words of welcome from school and studentbody officials.

The Junior Prom, one of the most anticipated events of the spring semester, gives the coeds and their escorts a chance to dress in their best formal wear, listen to a "name" performer and be treated like royalty by the Junior Class.

Studentbody Officers Make Activity Plans

A nine-man Executive Council will direct student activities in the coming year under the direction of studentbody President Bob Christiansen.

Mr. Christiansen and the five studentbody vice presidents were elected in April. The other three members of the Executive Council are appointed by the president.

Bob Christiansen is from Ely, Nev., and is a sociology major. He served in 1964-65 as an executive assistant to President Bruce Olsen.

Lynn Southam was elected to the newly created position of vice president of academics. He is a junior majoring in political science who calls Pleasant Grove, Utah, his home.

German Institute Sends 100 Books

Some 100 books printed in Germany have been presented to Brigham Young University by the Goethe Institute of Munich, Germany.

Dr. Siegfried von Nastitz, consul general for Germany in San Francisco, made the official presentation of the books to Dr. R. Max Rogers, chairman of the Department of Languages at BYU.

The books cover a wide range of topics, from German art and culture to philosophy and language, according to Dr. Rogers.

Goethe Institute is a private organization which fosters study of the German language all over the world. This is the first time that the institute has given material to BYU, Dr. Rogers said.

Currently on display in the McKay Building, the books will be moved soon to the J. Reuben Clark Jr. Library.

Dances, Dances Everywhere . . .

Y Social Calendar Schedules A Busy Year

One of the busiest offices on the fifth floor of the Ernest L. Wilkinson Center is that of Craig Collette, vice president of the student body in charge of social affairs.

With his staff Craig has the responsibility of planning hundreds of activities—most of them dances that start before registration and continue until the seniors have donned their robes for commencement.

Most of the dances were scheduled for 1965-66 during the last part of the school year just concluded.

Highlights of the "social year" will include the Preference Ball, Homecoming Dance, Junior Prom, Winter Carnival and Winter and Spring formal.

Get acquainted and "hello" dances will be held in the Wilkinson Center ballrooms and on its patios with the beginning of Orientation Week.

Homecoming will be held on Nov. 16, with the big dance scheduled for Nov. 3.

Winter Carnival, which traditionally draws big crowds to a pre-dance concert, will be in February and the Junior Prom, with its pre-dance concert, will be April 15, according to Betty Kane of the BYU Scheduling Office.

In addition to these traditional affairs, the social office has planned something new for the coming year. Every other Saturday the Skyroom, atop the Wilkinson Center, will be open to the studentbody for dinner-dancing. Although this was done on an irregular and experimental basis last year, it will be a regularly slated activity this year, according to Dan Staples of the social office.

In addition to dances open to the entire studentbody each week, individual groups, including housing units and wards, will hold dances throughout the year.

An aerial view of the campus shows only part of 600 acre area. In the foreground are the academic buildings with housing units and part of Provo City's residential area showing in the background. More housing units and the physical education facilities are out of the picture to the left.

New Program Announced For ROTC Cadets

Major changes in the Air Force ROTC program at Brigham Young University are planned as a result of the 1964 ROTC Vitalization Act, according to Lt. Col. Paul H. Sharp.

A new two-year feature of the program allows students to substitute a sixweek field training course for the first two years of the four-year ROTC program. The field course will be conducted at Keesler AFB, Miss., and Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Competition for career assignments as Air Force officers has been traditionally a four-year race, running through Air Force ROTC on 186 college and university campuses throughout the country.

The new two-year program permits students to gain a commission although they did not enroll in the AFROTC basic course during their freshman and sophomore years.

It will compress the requirements so that students may enter at the junior level on a par with their classmates.

The new program also enables junior college students to qualify and compete for officer commissions when they transfer to a four-year college.

Students applying for the new program must qualify on the Air Force Officer Qualifying Test, pass a medical examination, appear before an interview board composed of senior Air Force officers and complete the six-week field training course.

Better Service

Reserve Library Moved

Reference books and the reserve collection in the J. Reuben Clark Jr. Library have been moved to improve library service, according to Dr. S. Lyman Tyler, director of the library.

The Reserve Library, formerly on the second level, has been moved upstairs to the Main floor in the space formerly used as a newspaper reading area.

Newspapers have been moved to the south end of the main floor. Reference books on specific subjects, formerly kept on the main floor, have been moved to the floor where the general collection in a particular subject area is housed. Librarians on each floor will now assist students in the use of these books.

Librarians at the reference desk on the main floor will continue to assist patrons with the general periodical indexes, the card catalog, national and trade bibliographies, encyclopedias, handbooks and yearbooks.

The Reserve Library has been moved to the main floor (third level) of the J. Reuben

Clark Library. It was formerly located on the second level.

July 31 Deadline Set For Admissions, Tests

New students planning on entering Brigham Young University in the fall should begin now to meet the requirements for admission, as the deadline is July 31, according to President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

An application must be accompanied by a transcript of high school or previous college credits. Also required of incoming new students is the American College Test. This examination is given to aid school officials in registration advisement.

The last "national test" date has passed, but the ACT will be given at any time at Brigham Young University before July 30 and at BYU Continuing Education Centers in Los Angeles, Idaho Falls, Ogden and Salt Lake City on July 17.

A $25 deposit is required no later than 30 days after admission is granted.

The ACT will also be given during Orientation Week—Sept. 14-18—to missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints unable to take it earlier and individuals who live in areas where the test is not given. These areas are primarily in the eastern part of the United States. Other hardship cases also will be considered.

Activity Up In Wards On Campus

Books can and have been written about the religious activities of the students at Brigham Young University.

More than 95 per cent of the students are members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. The remaining five per cent, many of them non-Christian, attend the church of their choice in the Provo area.

Six stakes of the LDS Church are organized on campus. To date, 58 wards are active in the stake.

This gives each student the opportunity to take an active part in Church activities. More than 90 per cent of the members of the campus stakes hold either ward or stake positions.

In addition to regular Church activity, on an individual basis, the school holds weekly devotional exercises which feature speakers from the General Authorities of the Church.

Fleetsides are held on a weekly and multi-stake basis. Presidents of the six stakes are Ray Beckham, Clyde Sandgren, Fred Schvedendin, William S. Dowdy, Harold Goodman, and Wayne Hales.

The stake presidents, bishops and high councilmen are chosen from the permanent residents of the 11 stakes in the Utah Valley area. The others positions are filled by students.

The studentbody is well qualified for religious leadership; some 4384 students in 1964-65 had returned missionaries of the Church.

Residents Open Homes To Internationals

Utah Valley residents have the opportunity to become temporary "parents" of foreign students during their first year in the United States.

The program, which already in operation, is sponsored by International Students Council of Brigham Young University. Winston Sam Fong is chairman.

First duty of the local prior is to meet the students when they arrive in Provo to attend Brigham Young University. They are asked to take the foreigners into their homes for a brief period prior to school and acquaint them with American customs.

The period also will provide time for foreign students to become adjusted to American food and habits. Mr. Sam Fong said the temporary "parents" want to take the visitors on sightseeing tours of the area.

During the year the parents will share Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays with the students. The students in return will invite the parents to visit school functions and activities sponsored by the geographic foreign clubs.

Area residents interested in the program may leave applications with the adviser of foreign students, A-229 Abraham O. Smith Administration Building. Representatives of the plan will call on the applicants to explain the program and answer questions.

Newest Building Set for Autumn Opening

The newest of the campus academic buildings—the Stephen L. Richards Physical Education Building—will be in use this fall. Construction work on the massive building is on schedule, according to the contractors. The lead contractors, Mark B. Garfinkel and Garfinkel and Gilman Construction Company, list the project as more than 75 per cent complete.

Located on the site of the old soccer stadium, the new building is next to the Smith Fieldhouse, and is connected to the oldhouse with an underground tunnel.

With four gymnasiums, three swimming pools, three dance studios, 10 lecture rooms, 60 offices and lockers and shower areas for hundreds, the newest structure has approximately 200,000 square feet of floor space.

One of the most impressive segments of the building is the swimming pool area. Two pools, divided into lanes for competition swimming, one 75 by 60 feet, and the other 75 by 42 feet, join a diving pool, 60 by 32 feet, in one area, 150 by 155 feet.

Facilities for 1000 spectators have been provided in a gallery overlooking the pool. The pool area is equipped for closed circuit television broadcasting to her parts of the building or for broadcasting of events outside the building.

Divers may be observed below water through large glass portholes constructed in that pool. The new building will house the Departments of Women's Physical Education, Recreation,

Equipment Fees to Be Charged for Building Use

A $5 fee will be charged all students each semester to cover the cost of the operating costs of the building. The fee will be paid to the Department of Physical Education, Joseph T. Bentley, University Controller has announced.

The fee will cover swim suits, physical education uniforms and the maintenance of the building. Clothing towels, according to Mr. Bentley.

All students are being assessed a fee because the school anticipates that "nearly all" of the students will be participating in swimming, physical education, or intramurals of some kind in connection with the new facilities.

Work Pushed on TV Station; Signal Expected in Autumn

Work on the new Brigham Young University television station is nearing completion and the station is expected to go on the air some time in September, according to T. M. Williams, director of BYU Broadcast Services.

The 56-foot long antenna was trucked to New York where it is being rebuilt and tested so that it will be properly tuned to the frequency of the new KBYUTV channel 11.

The antenna will be raised into station at the transmitter site at the Ogden Mountain west of Salt Lake City. The site on Mount Ogden is owned by the Brigham Young University. The antenna is presently shared by channel 4 and channel 7.

The antenna, which was given to BYU by station KIRO, Seattle, is a helical coil, built some what like a spring. Mr. Williams said it is one of the most efficient Youth Leadership, and Health and Safety Education, according to Dean Milton Hartvigsen of the College of Physical Education.

The new building actually covers more ground area than any other on campus, but is exceeded in floor space because several buildings on campus have more floors than the Richards Building.

Stephen L. Richards, for whom the building is named, was a member of the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at the time of his death in 1959. He served as a member of the Council of the Twelve from 1917 to 1951, when he was named counselor to President David O. McKay.

This view of the new Stephen L. Richards Physical Education Building shows it from the top of the old football stadium. The Smith Fieldhouse is in the background.

ground. This building covers more ground than any other on campus, longer by ten yards on each end than the football field it replaced.

When completed these three pools will provide the finest in aquatic training and competition facilities for the BYU students. The diving pool, shown in the background, is equipped with underwater portholes for getting a close look at the divers.

Big Screen Class Use Studied

How to use large-screen television to overcome shortages of classrooms and teachers is being studied by a group of Brigham Young University professors.

A grant of $9,986 has been awarded by the U.S. Office of Education to assist the BYU savants to find the best means of using big-picture TV when the plant and staff cannot be quickly expanded.

Heading the researchers is Dr. Owen S. Rich, associate professor of communications, assisted by T. M. Williams, director of BYU Radio and Television Services, and Dr. Richard D. Poll, professor of history and political science.

BYU already has had one year of experience with the large screen television, but the new research will seek to set up methods, guidelines and curriculum so that the system can be readily adopted by other colleges and universities.

The Joseph Smith Building auditorium has been converted into a television theater of 1,800 seats, with projector, screen, lecture control board and special lighting.

Dr. Rich said this project is not to be confused with the now far north as the Idaho-Idaho border. Reception will be best in cities along the Wasatch Front. BYU plans to use the $9,986 rest of the area.

The signal will be transmitted as far south as Richfield and as far north as the Idaho-Idaho border. Reception will be best in cities along the Wasatch Front. BYU plans to use the $9,986 rest of the area.

The professor can videotape his lecture in advance or he can lecture to the class in person from a control desk, automatically aiming cameras at himself or from overhead on materials on the desk.

We shall set up procedures to help the teacher plan the course before it happens."

He said the research also will develop techniques and equipment which most universities can adapt. Other problems will be to study student orientation to optimum distances and viewing angles, and economic considerations.

Pennsylvania State University is the only other university in the nation using the large-screen method, Dr. Rich said.

Accident Insurance Offered By School Health Center

Student health insurance to complement the old-fashioned Health Center facilities has been authorized by Brigham Young University's Board of Trustees.

The health and accident insurance provides hospital care, medical-surgical coverage, and ambulance service for injuries and illness originating both on and off campus 24 hours a day. The premium cost on $100,000 insurance is $15 for the entire school year.

Every student who has indicated his intention to enroll at Brigham Young will be sent an IBM card on which to indicate whether or not he wants to take out the insurance. This card must be returned by August 31.

Y Food Service Wins Honor For Facilities

A national award for high quality of food preparation and service facilities has been won by the Ernest L. Wilkinson Center of Brigham Young University.

It is one of 25 institutions selected as the nation's outstanding in the 19th annual food service awards program sponsored by Institutions Magazine. The award was accepted last Thursday by Wells P. Cleward, director of BYU Food Services.

The presentation was made at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel before an audience of more than 500 food service designers, fabricators, installers and manufacturers.

Competition A by invitation only. The awards are given only to new installations.

Winners in the 1955 competition represent the finest kitchens and dining rooms among the nation's restaurants, hospitals, schools, hotels and employee cafeterias.

The installation in the Wilkinson Center includes not only the cafeteria and snack bar on the main floor, but also the skyroom, catering, preparation center for other cafeterias on campus, bakery, butcher shop, and vegetable preparation room.

The Center facilities opened in June 1961 and serves 3300 persons a day.

Brigham Young University Food Service under direction of Mr. Cleward also won the Institutions Magazine award in 1958 for outstanding facilities of the Cannon Center.

The Health Center on campus is a component of a large out-patient clinic and in-patient clinic, for cases requiring bed care. The campus "hospital" functions 24 hours a day, seven days a week during school terms and is available to all full-time students.

Cases which require major surgery, dental services, eye and ear corrections, routine physical examinations and obstetric services are referred to local doctors and hospitals.

In addition to providing physicians for consultation by appointment, the health center schedules special clinics throughout the year.

Dr. Clyde H. Holmes is director of the Health Center.

Covey

Siddoway

Johnson

Jeppson

Whetten

Clark

Bernhard

Covey, Siddoway Given Administrative Posts

Recent administrative changes at Brigham Young University have brought a former mission president and BYU faculty member to campus as administrative assistant to the President.

President Stephen Covey of the Irish Mission assumed his duties July 1. William R. Siddoway who had been serving as acting administrative assistant returned to his former position, director of admissions and records.

Mr. Covey also will take over the direction of University relations in place of Lester B. Whetten, who became dean of the General College June 1. University relations includes the areas of publications, news and information, advertising, program bureau, faculty lecture bureau, mailing, radio and television, tours and conferences.

An assistant professor of business management at BYU, Mr. Covey joined the BYU staff in 1957, receiving a leave in January 1962 to head the Irish Mission.

He obtained the B.S. degree at University of Utah in 1953 and the MBA at Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration in 1957. He also has studied at Denver University and National Training Laboratories, Bethel, Maine. In 1959 he was a fellow of the Foundation for Economic Education.

Frequently sought by industry as a business analyst and consultant on human relations, he has conducted many training courses for executives in personnel management.

Mr. Siddoway, who is president of the BYU Fourth Stake, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, came to BYU in 1962, from San Jose State College where he was assistant to the president and research coordinator.

Jr. English Exam Dated

Dates on which the Junior English Proficiency Examination will be given in the fall semester have been announced by the English Department.

Two Saturdays, Oct. 9 and Nov. 20, have been set aside for the test, which is required of all students who have taken their freshman composition course and at least 60 hours to college credit.

Every student must pass the test before he graduates from the University. If he fails the examination he must take a remedial course the next semester before he can take the test again.

Center Provides Guidance to LDS Students

Dr. Lynn Eric Johnson has been appointed director of a new Admissions Guidance Center for LDS students at Brigham Young University.

Dr. Johnson was acting director of admissions and records before he assumed his new post.

The Center is designed to assist the youth of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in making proper decisions regarding post-high school educational programs. The following services will be provided:

1. Evaluation of high school transcripts and other educational records including test scores and personal recommendations.
2. Suggestions regarding the educational programs which would be of special benefit to the individual student.
3. Offers for personal counseling at one of the following locations: BYU campus in Provo, Ricks College, the Church College of Hawaii, BYU Continuing Education Centers, LDS Institutes of Religion and the LDS Business College.

BYU Fashions Stress Taste

"Good taste means well dressed" might well be the fashion motto at Brigham Young University.

For men and women the question of what to wear is an important one and campus fashions are determined by the traditions of the Y and styles of the day. Simplicity, modesty and "conservatism" are traditions that have endured from the days of Brigham Young himself.

These standards have specific meanings. Taboo on campus are bermuda shorts for men or women, capri pants for women, and strapless formal wear for the coeds.

Appropriate attire for the girls includes skirts and sweaters, wool and cotton school dresses, stacked heels, flats or "runners" with hose for classroom wear.

Sport coats, blazers, slacks, sweaters and sport shirts are in style for the academic male.

In place for the many campus sporting events and the post-game dances are heels and hose, sweater-skirt sets, wool sport suits and slacks for the women and sport coats, blazers or suit and tie for the men.

There are no strictly formal dances at Brigham Young University, but the use of a tuxedo or dinner jacket and the long formal dress is proper at the Junior Prom and one or two other special events during the year.

For most dances, "dresy-dress" affairs, the men should wear dark suits and ties and the coeds should be in their party best.

Two More Colleges, Deans Open Offices

Two new colleges will be operating on the Brigham Young University campus when students return for fall semester.

The new units came as a result of dividing the College of Humanities and Social Sciences and the General College.

Dr. John Bernhard, dean of the Humanities and Social Sciences College before the June 1 split was named by President Ernest L. Wilkinson to head the new College of Social Sciences.

Dr. Bruce Clark, formerly chairman of the English Department, was named to guide the College of Humanities.

The General College was divided to form a new College of Industrial and Technical Education and a General College. Dr. Ernest Jeppson, who was the General College dean, became dean in the new college. Lester B. Whetten, former director of university relations, was named to head the General College.

Included in the College of Social Sciences are the departments of Political Science, History, Archaeology, Geography, Sociology, Anthropology and Psychology and the areas of Asian Studies, International Relations, and Russian Studies.

The new College of Humanities will include the English and Languages Departments and the areas of Latin American Studies and Humanities.

General College makeup will include three areas, the Division of Provisional Registration, American Indian Education Program and the Skills Improvement Service.

The departments which will main under the direction of Dr. Jeppson include Industrial Education, Industrial Technology of the Technical Institute.

Dean Whetten has a long record of service in education administration. He has served director Snow College, superintendent of schools in Pagosa Springs, Colo., and served on the staff of the Chicago College of Osteopathy and Mesa College, Grand Junction, Colo.

Dean Clark received his academic training at Brigham Young and the University of Utah. He has served on the BYU staff since 1950.

He is the author of numerous books, lesson manuals and articles and is a former member of the Athletic Advisory Council.

Cumorah Pageant

More than 100 Brigham Young University students will help tell the story of the Book of Mormon this summer.

The group will participate in the Hill Cumorah Pageant, which he held July 27-31, sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints to dramatize the story of American Indians.

This pair is dressed for more formal dances and parties, and for Church meetings held on campus.

Dressed for games, after game dances, and parties are these Brigham Young University students.

'Troupers Circle Globe for

Members of the "Curtaintime USA" cast take time to try an elephant as a means of transportation. David Jacobs and Ann Barton were part of a cast which read the fame of BYU from Ceylon to Jordan to the United Nations in New York.

Holiday U.S.A.' Group Entertains in Orient

"Holiday in the USA" is presented for GIs throughout the Pacific by ten talented young men and women of the Young University of the Pacific and two faculty directors on a twelve-week tour of the Orient which began May 29. Sponsored by the United States Department of Defense, the production is directed by Miss Jane Johnson of the BYU Program. It is the fourth Program tour to go to the Orient in recent years.

Ten students were chosen for the tour because of their talent and versatility. All of them have been performing song, dance and drama during various tours of the show. Unit manager is Robert Oliphant, band director in physical education.

The troupe flew to San Francisco and then to Japan aboard a Navy transport. Following a week tour in military installations in Japan and several people shows for the United States Information Service, they sailed to Korea for a three-day stay.

In Japan, the famed Marine Bandground during the last war, Iwaw, Formosa, and the Philippines will also be visited by the troupe before returning to Pro-Aug. 28. Accommodations throughout the tour are supplied in military installations.

The troupe, a girls trio composed of Sally Flynn, Ontario, Sand Jensen, Northridge, and Fatti Petersen, Don Colo, is one of the major attractions of the show. They have performed in several contests in this year.

Members of the group are Doug Curran, Washington, Charles Hansen, Iowa, Ida, and Fatti Petersen, Don Colo, of West Covina, Calif.; Housekeeper, Orem; Steffen, Nielsen, Salinas, and Terry. A telephone conversation with James A. Lawrence, director of the BYU Program Bureau, Colonel H. Gladd, on behalf of General J. C. Lamberti, professional entertainer in the Department of Defense, noted the BYU administration

Curtaintime Crew Draws Praise As Mideast Tour Comes to End

Twenty-five talented Brigham Young University students, who have set international relations to music and dance in 13 Middle Eastern nations, returned to campus in June after performances at the New York World's Fair, United Nations, and Washington, D.C.

The troupe, which left Provo Feb. 18 on the four-month trek for the U.S. Department of State, cemented American friendships and boosted the stock of American youth in a language every body understands—sparkling, wholesome entertainment of the song-dance-comedy variety.

The variety show, entitled "Curtain Time USA," visited Ceylon, India, Nepal, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Egypt, Iraq, Syria, Turkey, Greece, Lebanon, and Jordan.

Their final stop of the State Department tour was in Vienna where they performed in the World Music Festival. The tired troupe added many performances on their own time in Europe for the missions of the Church.

At the Vienna festival a two-hour meeting was arranged between the Russian representatives, the Bolshoi Ballet, and the American representatives. The BYU "Curtaintime USA" cast, at a restaurant in the Vienna woods the two groups exchanged friendly discussions of customs in the two countries.

The tour was sponsored by the Department of State as a type of college-to-college good will visit to improve international relations and impressions of American youth. The plan was outstandingly successful. The colleagues were acclaimed everywhere not only for their flashy, fast-moving show, but also for their friendship, good manners and clean living.

Not only did they perform in scores of shows in the long tour, but also have participated in forums, round table discussions, luncheons, receptions and other events with kings, ministers, ambassadors, educators, students and common folk.

Each person in the BYU show had to become something of an authority on political, religious, economic, educational, social, historical and geographic conditions in each of the 13 countries. All this preparation came in a special course under direction of the University's Political Science Department before they left.

Also each cast member did double duty as a stand-in, a costume presser, light and sound technician, scenery painter, or errand boy.

The show was geared so it could be set up and ready to go in 20 minutes. The students designed their props and equipment so that it would fold down into suitcase size.

Members of the cast represent many of the 50 states of the USA. They include Rosanne Tueller Nielsen, first runner-up to Miss America; Janet Todd, national queen princess; the "Y Four" a successful male quartet; the "Dancing Dolls," lovely girls who have danced on BYU shows throughout the nation, and many other versatile performers.

It is a cosmopolitan crew. All of the men have served as missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; seven cast members have lived outside USA; 15 speak languages other than English. As a group they have a B-plus average in their studies.

A highlight of the tour was the three-hour visit with Jordan's youthful King Hussein I. The show was such a smash hit with his people, the king asked to meet the America visitors.

They assembled at the residence of the U.S. Ambassador Robert Barnes with a crowd of nobles including ambassadors of six nations, half a dozen cabinet ministers, princes of the royal family and other officials.

Diplomatic ice melted as the young collegians sang, danced, chatted with the king about horses, automobile racing and the job of a king. Next day messengers came bearing gifts of watches and gold beaded jackets, necklaces and bracelets for the American visitors.

The Jerusalem Times reported: "The 25 members are one of the best investments of the U.S. State Department for its net crop of love, friendship, and peace is greater than any U.S. money or arms deal could gain."

Members of the cast everywhere. In Egypt the students made a special visit to an ailing governor; he was moved to tears. In Jordan they entertained in a good-natured dance contest with Greek students. In Turkey a symphony orchestra leader told them they performed better than the Russians who preceded them, and the people knew it.

Their smiles broke the language barrier in Pakistan, and students came from 300 miles in Pakistan to question them about American customs.

Salzburg Students Return...

Semester at European University Ends

One hundred forty Brigham Young University students, steeped in European culture, arrived at Salt Lake City airport at 5 a.m. Friday, June 18, after spending a semester at University of Salzburg, Austria.

"It was an experience which the students could not have duplicated on any campus in America," said Dr. Arthur Watkins of the BYU Languages Department, director of the project.

He said the participants, eager to make the most of the opportunity, worked hard not only at then studies but also at learning all they could about local speech, customs, products, food, history and politics.

The group left Salt Lake City on Feb. 6 and upon their arrival were given a reception by the University of Salzburg as the first Utah group of its kind to attend the University. They also were honored at a candlelight concert in Mirabell Castle by musicians of Salzburg, which is one of the music capitals of Europe.

Prerequisite for the trip was at least two semesters of German

A group of 20 BYU students spent four days in Hungary arguing politics and foreign policy and dancing with members of a Communist Youth group. The BYU group was under the direction of Prof. Ray C. Hillam. Pictured here are, left to right, Susan Behrens, Carole Young, Sandy Nelson and Ford McBride.

At Salzburg the students studied about 25 different courses, including German, European history, culture, geography, philosophy, political science, music, etc. The music classes were held in the palace of the archbishop, and students lived in two hotels and in private homes.

Dr. John Halliday of the BYU Music Department organized the students into the Mormon Chamber choir (choirs) which presented concerts in Munich, Vienna and Salzburg. Local newspapers gave the ensemble glowing reviews.

"Reports continually came back to us that this was the most wholesome and hard working group of Americans the Austrians had ever seen," Dr. Watkins said.

After the semester ended on May 28, the class toured Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy and England.

Others faculty advisers on the trip were Dr. Ray Hillam, political science, and Dr. Eugene Campbell, history.

Student officers chosen to lead their classmates were Dennis Taylor, president; Robert King, culture; Paul Carpenter, publicity; and Suzanne Johnson, secretary.

One tragedy marred the program. Two BYU coeds, Janice Reddie, 19, Salt Lake City, and Audrey Ungermann, 20, Orem, were asphyxiated in an accident in Vienna in March.

President Ernest L. Wilkinson of BYU visited the group in Salzburg and declared the program a great success.

Cougars Boogie for Big Year

Difficulty Seen in Matching Sports Performance of '65

BYU's athletic stock, which was bullish this past year, should hold steady in 1965-66. Such was the athletic outlook at Cougarville, where preparations are underway for another exciting year of intercollegiate sports.

The question seems to be, "How can the Cougars improve on 1965?"

In football there is room to improve on the 3-6-1 record, and with fan interest at a new high, they could do it. Last year the Cougars more than doubled their home attendance mark.

Basketball is one area where the Mountain Cats might have trouble meeting the '65 par. BYU had a 21-7 season record and was crowned champion in the league (WAC) that was one of the best in the country. BYU was rated sixth in the nation in the final wire service poll.

The Cougar wrestling team, although not conference champions, lost only one of 13 dual matches with other schools last Winter. Coach Fred Davis will have most of his mat squad back, plus some new talent that could make the Cougars stronger.

Gymnastics at BYU continued to move ahead in 1965 as the Cougars finished second in the WAC finals.

It was in the area of spring sports, however, where the Cougars seem to make their greatest strides. The track team besides winning three major meets, finished third in the NCAA finals at Berkeley, Calif.

Cougar golfers tied for ninth place in the NCAA tournament at Knoxville, Tenn., and BYU's net squad placed seventh in the NCAA playoffs in Los Angeles.

Jeff Congdon . . . ball-hawking guard.

Grant Wilson . . . Cougar lineman.

Quaker Meet Tops Slate

It will be hard for BYU's basketball team to top last year's record, but Coach Stan Watts and his roundballers are willing to give it a try.

Watts and his '65 team wound up the season with a 21-7 mark and an impressive number of scoring and attendance records. In nearly every respect, it was the Cougars' finest hour in basketball.

This summer the Cougars are spending six weeks in South and Central America where they are playing a total of 22 games.

If the Cougar coach elects to go with the 12 men used on the tour, the squad will be composed of nine lettermen and three newcomers.

The returning lettermen are Dick Nemelka, Jeff Congdon, Ken James, and Jim James; forwards Bill Ruffner, Steve Kramer, Gary Hill and Neil Roberts; and center Craig Raymond.

Newcomers to the squad are freshmen center Jim Eakins (6-11) and guard Randy Schouten, plus transfer Orrill Fisher (6-11).

The balance of the schedule is also formidable. BYU will host Illinois, Houston, and St. Joseph's in Provo before the Christmas break.

Non-league opponent's BYU will meet include Santa Clara, Denver and Utah State.

Here is the 1965 schedule with open dates listed:

Dec. 3, Illinois at Provo; Dec. 4, Houston at Provo; Dec. 10, Open; Dec. 11, Open; Dec. 17, Santa Clara at Santa Clara; Dec. 18, Santa Clara at Santa Clara; Dec. 21, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia at Provo; Dec. 27-29, Quaker State Tournament at Philadelphia; Jan. 7, Arizona State at Provo; Jan. 8, Arizona State at Provo; Jan. 13, New Mexico at Albuquerque; Jan. 15, Wyoming at Laramie; Jan. 22, Utah State at Provo; Jan. 23, Open; Jan. 29, Open; Feb. 5, Utah at Salt Lake City; Feb. 11, Utah State at Logan (may change to 10th); Feb. 12, Denver at Provo; Feb. 18, Arizona State at Tempe; Feb. 19, Arizona at Tucson; Feb. 25, New Mexico at Provo; Feb. 26, Wyoming at Provo; Mar. 5, Utah at Provo.

Summer Tours Take Cougars To Europe, South America

Seven-league boots were part of the equipment issue for five athletic teams at this time this summer as the Cougars launched unprecedented tours abroad.

BYU's basketball, golf, tennis and track teams were all booked for summer competition outside of the United States. In a wide scattering of athletic talent, teams representing BYU will compete in over a dozen countries on three different continents.

The Cougars' basketball team headed for Mexico City at the close of the regular school year, the basketball team was booked for summer action in South and Central America, and the golf, tennis and track teams are scheduled for a month of meets and tournaments in Europe.

First to taste action in summer tour was Coach Glenn Tuckett's basketball team which won seven and lost one in an eight-game series in Mexico City.

At about the same time, BYU's baseballers, champions of the WAC this past season, were launching a 22-game tour in South America. At the midway point of the tour the Cougars had lost only one game. Their itinerary

Swim Team Joins Collegiate Ranks

The number of intercollegiate teams at BYU will be expanded to ten this fall when the Cougars launch a swimming program in the new facilities of the Stephen L. Richards Physical Education Building.

After an absence of many years, BYU will have a swimming team in intercollegiate competition. Heading the Cougar squad will be coach Walter Fryer, who spent the better part of last year laying the ground work for the program.

calls for games in Ecuador, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Panama and Mexico.

Biggest squad to take to the road this summer is composed of track and field stars, 19 of whom left Salt Lake City the latter part of June for a month long tour of Europe. Coach Clarence Robison's collection of ten endurance athletes will compete against the best in England, Ireland, Scotland, Sweden, Germany, Austria, and Italy.

Two other teams representing spring sports, golf and tennis, will also accompany the track group to Europe. Coach Karl Tuckers' golfers will confine its competition to the British Isles, while Coach Wayne Pearsons and the tennis stars will compete in Europe.

With only four games remaining on the basketball team's tour of South America, the Cougars had suffered only one defeat. The track team was equally impressive in its initial appearances abroad.

Cats Open With Arizona State

The first wave of students to reach campus this fall will be wearing cleats.

Brigham Young University football team will arrive in Provo a day or two prior to the start of football practice on Sept. 1. In fact, the Cougars will have played one game, against Arizona State, before the first class at BYU are underway.

Coach Tommy Hudspeth, who will be in his second year as head coach of the Cougars, describes the '65 outlook as improved. With a score of lettermen from last year's team returning, the football team should be slightly improved in all phases of the game.

Beginning with the season opener on Sept. 18 against Arizona State in Tempe, the Cougars will play a full slate of conference games. However, only the league game with Utah will be on the home field in Provo.

Other home games for the Mountain Cats will bring Kansas State, San Jose State and Colorado State to Provo.

Numbered among the returning lettermen are quarterback Virgil Carter, fullback John Ogden, and several other regulars from the offensive and defensive units of last year.

Carter, the thinking man quarterback, rushed and passed for 1,542 yards as a sophomore last year. Ogden, also a sophomore, more during the '64 campaign was the league's leading ground-gainer. Ogden, too, was one of the better all-around performers last season.

Here is the 1965 schedule:

Date	Opponent	Site
Sept. 18	*Arizona State	Tempe
Sept. 24	*Kansas State	Provo
Oct. 2	*Oregon	Eugene
Oct. 8	*San Jose St.	Provo
Oct. 16	*Open	Laramie
Oct. 23	*Wyoming	Laramie
Oct. 30	*Utah	Provo
Nov. 6	*Utah	Provo
Nov. 13	(Homecoming) Colorado St.	Provo
Nov. 20	*Arizona	Tucson
Nov. 27	*New Mexico	Albuquerque

*Conference Games

James Joins KSL

New Voice to Carry BYU Games

Paul James, veteran sports-caster, sports seasons ahead and the opportunity of covering the Cougars.

Once again this year KSL, the 50,000-watt clear channel station in Salt Lake City will cover all BYU variety football and basketball games. A total of ten football games will be carried live, along with 26 basketball games. The 1965 season will mark KSL's fifteenth consecutive year with the Cougars.

James, who is one of the better known television and radio sports-casters in the West, will join KSL this summer. He will serve as sports director in both radio and television for the station.

"It's great to be with a station of KSL's stature," said James regarding his new assignment. "I'm really looking forward to the

Paul James

Said station manager Joe Klier of James' addition to the staff: "We believe we have a triple threat combination in KSL's broadcast facility, the area's outstanding sportscaster and one of the country's finest universities. It's the dream of any broadcaster."

Prior to joining KSL, James worked at station KCPX. His assignments included the broadcast of University of Utah football and basketball games.

Paul graduated from Ogden High School prior to his entrance to University of Utah, where he attended on a four-year Rotary Scholarship.

After graduating with a major in Speech and English, he entered the field of broadcasting, and ultimately became the area's foremost figure in sports reporting.

Paul and his wife, Annette, are the parents of four children.